2011 Assembly European Geosciences Union (EGU) will bring together specialists in the field, from 03 to 08 April in Vienna, Austria.

Earth, space and planetary sciences are some of the disciplines that cover the EGU assembly this year, during their meeting in Austria, which hopes to hold geoscientists from around the world.

The event represents an excellent opportunity for young scientists who want to get close to renowned specialist history, present papers and discuss their ideas.

The opportunity to register closes on 28 February. More information and registration <http://meetings.copernicus.org/egu2011/registration.html>
